

SAN DIEGO'S KR HESS LAW OFFERS FIRST-RATE ASSET PROTECTION PLANNING

Do you ever find yourself asking, "Is it really necessary to protect my money?" or "What would happen to my financial assets if I was sued?" If so, you're not alone. Professionals ranging from the physician to the business owner have likely lost sleep worrying about their financial future. What about if your elderly mother was in a car accident and hit bystander pedestrians?

KR Hess Law, PC has entered into a strategic partnership with attorney Douglass Lodmell of the Asset Protection Council that will benefit the people of San Diego county and beyond with elegantly simple yet powerfully protective Asset Protection Plans.

KR Hess Law, PC is a San Diego estate planning firm led by Kristina R. Hess, who has defined her mission as changing the course of history in your family by guiding you to establish legal and inspirational legacies for future generations. Voted Best Lawyer San Diego North Coast in 2015, Hess brings 16 years of legal experience to the table.

Lodmell & Lodmell has been practicing Asset Protection Law in the United States since 1997, using sophisticated domestic and international structures to protect client assets.

"This is a real issue for a lot of people who are looking to protect their wealth from frivolous lawsuits," Hess said. "Lodmell & Lodmell have developed the best approach to Asset Protection Planning I have seen and we are very excited to be partnering with them. With the help of Doug and his staff, we are able to make clear and detailed recommendations on what you can do to implement a strong asset protection plan."

Hess says that asset protection planning is for anyone who wants to avoid losing their hard-earned wealth in claims or litigation. "America has become a very litigious society and insurance coverage is often not enough," she said.

So how does the asset protection process work? Hess and Lodmell walk you through a detailed analysis of your estate and financial needs, as well as your risk profile. They then educate you on which of your assets are already protected and to what extent, and which are not.

"It is a straightforward process that will result in a new confidence in how people can implement rock-solid asset protection for hard-earned wealth," Hess said.

One of the most common questions surrounding asset protection is how it differs from traditional insurance. Hess says that asset protection focuses on providing time, flexibility and options aimed at protecting one's assets. "Both are important and work together by insuring what is insurable and by providing options for protecting assets in the event that insurance is not available or simply fails," she said.
